DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The amendment and remarks filed September 27, 2006, are noted.
2. Claims 1-23 remain pending.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments, see the remarks, filed September 27, 2006, with respect to the rejection set-forth at paragraphs 5-6 of the last Office action have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection is withdrawn.

Claim Objections

4. Claim 11 is objected to because of the following informalities: This claim should, apparently read "...where the oxide is chosenu from among...". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 6, 7, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A. With respect to claim 6, the precise meaning of this claim is unclear. The phrase "[t]he paint according to claim 1, a wax dispersed in a solvent," does not appear to define anything and, further, appears not to further limit parent claim 1, which already recites "a dispersion of waxes in solvents." Claim 7 is similarly indefinite because it depends from claim 6.

B. With respect to claim 17, it is unclear from which claim this claim depends: "A method for painting plastic or metallic substrates, comprising the application of a paint according to wherein..."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baumgart et al. (WO 03/000812 A1; reference made to US 7,064,165 B2 as English-language equivalent).

This reference teaches a paint for plastic or metallic materials comprising the claimed materials. With respect to the waxes taught at 19:22, while these are not explicitly taught as dispersed in a solvent, since the overall composition may be solvent and/or water based, and the waxes form part of the composition, it is the examiner's position that the waxes are, inherently, dispersed in solvent.

With respect to the particular concentration recited in claim 1, the concentration of a photo-initiator and resin are result-effective variables, effecting the degree and extent of polymerization, as well as the coating properties of the coating, such as viscosity, etc. Consequently, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to optimize these result-effective variables by routine experimentation, absent evidence of unexpected results. See MPEP 2144.05. Further, differences in concentration will not support the patentability of subject matter encompassed by the prior art unless there is evidence indicating such concentration is critical.

With specific respect to claim 21, flashing-off prior to curing is well known in the coating art.

With respect to claim 22, while this reference does not explicitly state that the substrate is a housing for cell phones, it is the examiner's position that the plastic painting technique taught by Baumgart is suitable for such and would have been an obvious expedient to such an end.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 1762

10. Claim 23 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

11. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art neither teaches nor suggests the claimed process in which cell phone housing is coated according to the claimed process steps.

Conclusion

12. The prompt development of clear issues in the prosecution history requires that applicant's reply to this Office action be fully responsive (MPEP § 714.02). When filing an amendment, applicant should specifically point out the support for any amendment made to the disclosure, including new or amended claims (MPEP §§ 714.02 & 2163). A fully responsive reply to this Office action, if it includes new or amended claims, must therefore include an explicit citation (i.e., page number and line number) of that/those portion(s) of the original disclosure which applicant contends support(s) the new or amended limitation(s).
